(For the Saturday Evening Post.)

To the Hon. Bushrod Washington.

SIR—Your letter to Mr. Shaeffer, respecting the fate of your slaves, has been republished in our city papers, which, notwithstanding your protest, I will take the liberty of noticing.

In the first place, we find you congratulating yourself, that the "wound intended to be inflicted" was meant for the Colonization Society through the medium of its President, and not directed personally against yourself. You then, with all the hauteur of a Southern Planter, protest against our even questioning your right, legal or moral, of so disposing of what you term your property; and modestly request that none of your expressions may be construed as justificatory of your thus exercising this right. Then, sir, after eulogizing the memory of your honoured uncle, and lauding the purity of your own motives, (God save the mark,) you proceed to what you term a statement of facts—that you have had to struggle for many years to pay the expenses of your farm—that your slaves, having understood you intended manumitting them, had become disaffected—that you, learning this, assured them you had no intention of giving freedom to any of them—that in consequence of this, three of them eloped, (one a valuable cook!) and that in consequence of their eloping, you resolved upon selling them; and lastly, when effecting a sale to two negro buyers from Red River, you abated 2500 dollars of the price!

The above, I believe to be a correct summary of your letter, the deductions to have been fairly made. Now, sir, in answer to these facts, which need no corroboration from your kinsman, your neighbour, or your overseer, to whom you kindly refer us, I will recal to your recollection a conversation you had with several respectable gentlemen of this city some years since, whom you assured it was your intention of manumitting your slaves; sending out one third the first year, another third the second year, and the remainder the third year—and Mr. Elias B. Caldwell, when in this city for aid in furtherance of the plans of your Southern Colonists, asserted the same. Now, sir, we, who look upon these poor slaves as human, as "born alike free and equal" with yourself, and endowed by their Creator with the rights of life and life and liberty as sacred to them as to you, cannot but look on your conduct as a man and a Christian, with detestation. We hold this conduct to be incompatible with the character you ought to support and maintain as President Judge in this district; and trust you will resign that seat, which you no longer hold with credit to yourself or satisfaction to us.

PUBLICOLA.

(For the Saturday Evening Post.)

Messrs. Editors,
 A few days since, I discovered in two or three of the daily papers, a notice of a meeting at the Mayor's Court room, of the young men, for the purpose of organizing a society, to be styled the "Young Men's Bible Society of Philadelphia"—I attended the meeting, though I must acknowledge I went merely for the purpose of discovering, if possible, the motives which had elicited this call—for I concluded that the number of societies already established were sufficient to embrace all the objects in contemplation. My opinion was, that popularity, or some motive equally mercenary, had prompted them to be thus active. After hearing the Constitution read, which explained the utility of such a Society to co-operate with the "American Bible Society," as a more efficient means of circulating the Scriptures among the destitute part of the community, my unfavorable impressions were entirely removed, and my feelings enlisted in its favor. Notwithstanding the unpleasant state of the weather, more than eighty young men attended and became members—and the number has since been considerably increased.

Those objects which do not come under the notice of the American Bible Society, will be sought out, and after such are supplied with the Holy Scriptures, the constitution provides that the surplus received shall be annually transmitted to the secretary of the American Board. What young man is there in our city, if he is not openly hostile to the advancement of the Redeemer's kingdom, who would not be willing to pay the trifling sum of one dollar, annually, to promote a cause so infinitely important, so transcendently glorious? If every young man will but view this subject in its proper light, I do not hesitate to predict that the numbers of this society will be greatly augmented.

PERAMBULATOR.

MR. PHILLIPS.—This melodious songster has just arrived at New-York, and commenced the exhibition of his dramatic talents. We predict his second tour through the principal cities of the United States, will not be so profitable as the first—as the natives of the New World have lost their sensibility for every thing novel which then agitated their bosoms—the times have changed—and they have found, when it was too late, that they often paid too dear for their Whistle. A writer in the New-York Evening Journal thus introduces him to the public:—

"Oh! sweep for the hour."—Mr. Phillips, the singer, is about embarking to gratify the American public with a few additional lascivious love songs. A foreigner would naturally think that a high spirited, patriotic nation, would refrain from amusements to be purchased only with ignominy and contempt. To neglect public institutions and native genius, and complain of commercial embarrassments and governmental expenses, and nevertheless to contribute thousands to the singer of mere love ditties, is an absurdity too weak to condemn, and too foolish to ridicule. To songs, which elevate the tone of moral sentiment, excite and cherish a love of virtue and patriotism, no one can object. But chastened feelings and refined sensibility revolt at the idea of disseminating a taste for many of the amorous songs and licentious sentiments of Tom Moore, the very high priest of licentiousness, in the lovely garb of elegant diction and enchantingly figurative expression.

The talents of Mr. Phillips are not pre-eminently. In England, from the character of his performances, he is viewed very much in the same light as a man-milliner in this city. But in this country, he is caressed and fondled to the almost utter neglect of our own noble actors and actresses. In fact, nothing was brought forward while he was with us to elevate or instruct an audience. All was petty farce and ridiculous sing-song. Tragedy and the higher comedy fled at his approach. Theatrical talent was thrown out of employment, and an affected sickly sensibility was engendered wherever he appeared.

INCLEDON.—The London Chronicle of the 27th August, states—"A serious accident had nearly befallen the celebrated Charles Incledon last night. Accompanied by two friends, a double-bass and a celebrated flute player, the vocalist hired a hackney coach opposite the Foundling Hospital. They had not proceeded many yards before the axle-tree broke, and its contents were precipitated to the ground. The sudden shock produced a musical response.—The eccentric vocalist astonished the congregation, just coming out of the Foundling Chapel, who surrounded the coach, by chaunting through the window, as the body of the vehicle remained in its inclined position, "Hail! the Lark at Heaven's gate sings!" He was of course immediately recognised, and relieved from his perilous situation without any injury being sustained by himself or friends."

THEATRICAL.

In a letter from London of August 3, an English gentleman, accustomed to the drama, observes, "Mr. Price, the New York manager, is here, but I believe he has not, as yet, procured one star to brighten his new Temple of Apollo; and could he select a choice dish from each of the nine theatrical larders, now puffed off to allure the public taste, I do not think the banquet would be rich enough to reimburse him for his care, trouble, and expense. It is my firm opinion, that if the Managers of the New Hay Market Theatre had made a trip to America, and brought from thence the best company they could have mustered, (instead of taking them from the best companies in England, out of London,) the difference to their treasury, at the fall of the curtain in October next, would exceed five thousand pounds. My good friends in America will soon begin to find out, that they have more than an equal share of dramatic genius on their own ground. Mr. McCready, jun. is a young man of sterling merit, and would be a treasure to any Manager that could buy him, but I hear he is going to star through our united kingdoms. As for Ladies, merit is entirely out of the question. The range for young misses is now so great, that a sterling actress of thirty may be comical or tragical, but I am sorry to say, it would be for her own amusement. The fact is, that, with a few exceptions, the miserable stuff now introduced does not require genius. Painters, carpenters, and composers, are the principal performers—and if now and then a genuine play peeps out perchance, it appears to me that Thalia wears her mask, instead of playing with it; and, as to Melpomene, the audience now seem to be of Lord Shaftsbury's opinion, 'that gravity is the essence of imposture.' We have become too wise in London to bestow tears on fiction or smiles on wit. Our reasonable taste seems to be vitiated; and we loathe now what we formerly feasted on. For the rich entertainments that used to grace the dramatic board, we now substitute froth, whip-syllabub, mummery, and childish holiday tricks, which have thrown such a gloom over the science of acting, that, if not checked, will either sink it in the shades of ignorance, or at least reduce it to its original nothingness of Ballads in a Cart."

A letter from Eastport of the 8th inst. states that H. S. M. sloop Grasshopper, with the Governor of Newfoundland on board, was totally lost on the 30th ult. on the north side of Newfoundland, crew saved. The Governor had discharged the pilot five days before, because he would not reduce his pay to half the former price.

COM. MURRAY.

Extract from a sketch of the Life of the late Commodore Murray.

"His stores being replenished he sailed for the Windward Islands, (1799) and on his passage encountered a dreadful gale, where he had nearly foundered, and was on the eve of cutting away his masts, when the storm abated. He proceeded northwards towards Guadalupe, and fell in with the British frigate Magnanime of 44 guns, in a dark night, from which a gun was fired without the preliminary ceremony of shewing a signal. At this moment Capt. Murray's ward-room officers crowded round him, indignant at the insult offered the American flag, and anxiously enquired if he did not intend to return the fire. He sternly ordered them instantly to their quarters, without deigning to give any other reply to their urgent interrogations. Disgusted they obeyed the command, suspecting no very honourable motives for such haughtiness, coldness and reserve. It requires but very little aid from fancy to observe by the light of the battle lanterns, this little group of officers at their guns, bending their full, expressive, and indignant looks on their commander, their eyes gleaming with reproaches which their tongues dare not utter. From him they cast their eyes upon each other, and their silent glances accompanied by shrugs and indignant smiles, emphatically expressed what opinion was prevalent. The captain meanwhile maintaining a cold tranquility of deportment, saw and enjoyed the scene, appearing perfectly unconscious of the impression which his orders had made.

This silent interchange of thoughts and sensations, more eloquent, however, than all the powers of language, lasted for some time. Not a word was spoken—all was attention and dumb resentment. These officers at length to their astonishment and delight, received orders from their commander to return the salute with a full broadside. Another train of sensations occurred, and the frowns of anger were exchanged for gleams of the fondest admiration. The orders were promptly executed, and caused a violent commotion among the hands on board the British frigate. The American frigate was then hailed, and Com. Murray was desired to send his first lieutenant on board, to which an answer was promptly returned in the negative. It was then enquired whether he would permit a visit from the first lieutenant of the British frigate, to which a favourable answer was given. The American frigate was then visited by that officer, who after having explained the business to the satisfaction of the Commodore, was invited to take a glass of wine. "I hope, he answered, our shot did no damage;" "No, replied the American Commodore, "I hope my broadside did you none;"—"You did shatter us," (replied the Lieutenant) most —"

CANALS.

Extract from Col. Hain's Book on Canals, &c. lately published.

The policy of this country is two-fold; there is the policy of the general government, and that of the state governments. While the general government exercises a superintending power over the confederacy, and can appropriate disbursements for the public works, the different states have their own internal measures. Would they but unite their efforts for the next twenty years, the face of the union would be completely changed. If the national government should execute such works as the junction of the Chesapeake and Delaware bays and the union of the Delaware and Rariton rivers, and leave the different states to make their improvements within the compass of their respective means, we should be enabled in peace and in war to maintain an inland trade unequalled by any nation in existence, with the exception of China, and in time even surpass her. We could commence a voyage at the mouth of the Hudson, pass through the Western canal into the great lakes, through these to the Mississippi by the Chicago and the Illinois, and from thence to out posts on the Yellow stone, eighteen hundred miles above St. Louis, thence descending to the Mississippi, we could fall down with her current to New Orleans, pass from this emporium through inland channels along the Florida frontier, and cross its deep peninsula to Havana; from thence along the coast, by a chain of communications, through the waters of the Delaware and Chesapeake Bays, to the Delaware River, and by that and the Rariton, again enter the spacious bosom of our own harbour—performing a circuit of more than seven thousand miles. Such limits, when filled with population, will recall to mind, the boundaries of the Roman empire, when, in the enthusiastic language of the historian, it was "confounded with the globe of the earth," when its length extended from the Western ocean to the Euphrates, and its breadth, from the wall of Antonius, and the regions of Dacia, to mount Atlas and the sources of the Nile.

AN EXTRACT.

There are so many internal improvements now going on in the United States, that we can be struck with astonishment and delight. If we trace the surface of this continent, intersected by mighty rivers, or blocked up by impassable mountains, we behold these streams forming an amicable connexion by means of canals, and these mountainous obstructions avoided by turnpike roads. Where the natural force of the stream bids defiance to adverse navigation, we see this obstacle surmounted by the force of victorious steam. Thus, art in the contest has been triumphant over nature. Roaring torrents are now taught to turn spinning wheels, and to do the humble drudgery of the distaff.

Extract of a letter from Capt. Brown, to his daughter in Newburyport, (Mass.) dated

"Curacao, Sept. 13. "The Dutch lost, a few nights ago, the only man of war they had in this sea. The sloop of war Mercury, of 21 guns, left here with a convoy of seven sail, for Laguaira on the 10th inst.—in the afternoon of the same day, a squall of wind came on, with the most tremendous thunder and lightning. She was struck with lightning and dismasted, and run on shore 10 miles to the eastward of this port, and all efforts to get her off have been unavailing—she is a total wreck. No lives were lost, though several were much burnt. She will be missed by the Americans, for she has conveyed much of their property up to the points on the Main.

"There has been no rain here for several months, and there is scarcely a green herb on the island. Rain water has been sold here for $3 the demijohn!

Extract of a letter, dated

"MATANZAS, Sept. 27. "Three horrible events have just taken place. Three American vessels, two of them in, viz. the brig John Smith, and the schr. Milo, of Bristol; the other a German sloop Collector, of Rhode-Island, bumpily sailed out, HAVE BEEN CAPTURED at the entrance of this harbour, by a launch fitted out here! and manned by nine villains—Portuguese, six Spaniards, and two Englishmen. They killed the Captain and two men of the schr. and then ordered the sloop to the northward—they murdered all the crew of the brig, opened their entrance, changed them by the ribs to the rafts, any attempt afterwards set fire to the vessel, and when out were consumed!! The sloop was mortally injured, the pirates contented themselves with severely beating the crew and plundering the derelict her of the most valuable articles, clearing board—they then collected the Commodore'sibles and set them on fire and left her, the other vessel as in the case of the brig, to consume, his vessel and crew together—but these, fortunately had strength sufficient to make a to her long boat, and have safely got off to Matanzas.

On their arrival they applied to the governor for protection—and after some negotiation, he allowed the Americans in the boats full set out in quest of them, after a cruise of 38 hours, have just returned without success."

The late hurricane in the West India Islands was very severely felt at Guadalupe, Matanzas, Galante, Antigua, and other Windward Islands. In Guadalupe it is said to have been terrible in its effects—the new hospital, a very extensive building, was blown down, and many lives lost, reports say the new barracks were also unroofed, and many lives lost in them.

The St. Thomas Times of the 11th inst. notices the effects of the hurricane at Antigua, which commenced at that place on Sunday, 9th, about 8 o'clock in the evening, from the E. which continued for several hours, in the shape of a chopped round to the southward, and continued with redoubled violence till day. The injury to the town was not very great, but in the interior many of the negro houses unroofed, canes lodged, and mill works materially injured. The defence of the officer in charge of the Ordnance Departments, at St. Ann's, and seven Engineer's Quarters, suffered dreadfully, and the roof of the Artillery Barracks blown over the main body of the building. Several vessels were driven ashore.

TORNADO.

An intelligent friend, who is a capably observer of nature's operations, has recently favoured us with the following interesting facts in regard to the tornado which Franklin county on the 9th ult. The following more forcibly than could the eloquent description, the terrible effect of the wind on that occasion:

"There was found on the 10th of September last, in the southern part of the state, a tavern day-book, which it was expected was brought there from the country of Franklin, in the remarkable tornado of the 9th of that month. A letter was addressed to the Post Master at Watertown describing the book, and he was unable to identify it, and tell whence it was who he says it was in the dwelling house of Jonathan Wilson, of Warwick, which was entirely demolished in ten seconds of time. The book must have been blown about forty-five miles in a direct line, glasses, claphboards, and other light articles are found in the fields in all other parts of Groton, and all the towns between Groton and Warwick.

On Sunday last, at Palmer's Holloway, Miss Mary Radford, a lady, 24 years of age, after coming from church retired to her dressing room, first floor, back room, and whilst before the window taking off her shoes she gave a sudden scream and fell backwards, and on inquiring into the cause was discovered she had been shot in the head, cannot be extracted. On it was discovered that two young men, brothers, one of whom is a student of the Bank of England, and who reside on the opposite Terrace, were amusing themselves in the garden by firing at the ball, after perforating the glass curtain, lodged in her head, from it is impossible ever to extract it, endangering her life.

They killed the Captain and crew of the schooner, and then ordered her to be burnt. They then ordered the other two vessels to be burnt, and they then collected the combustibles and set them on fire and left her, hoping in the case of the brig, to consume her and crew together—but these have been of strength sufficient to take the long boat, and have safely got back to Matanzas.

TORNADO. An intelligent friend, who is a carrier of nature's operations, has obligingly favoured us with the following interesting facts in regard to the tornado which struck county on the 9th ult. They state more forcibly than could the most accurate description, the terrible effects of the wind on that occasion:

There was found on the 10th of September last, in the southern part of the county, a tavern day-book, which it was ascertained was brought there from the county of Franklin, in the remarkable tornado of the 9th of that month. A letter was addressed to the Post Master at Warren, describing the book, and he was able to identify it, and tell whence it was taken. He says it was in the dwelling house of Jonathan Wilson, of Warwick, which was entirely demolished in ten seconds of time. The book must have been about forty-five miles in a direct line. Sleighs, claphboards, and other light articles are found in the fields in all other parts of Groton, and all the towns between Groton and Warwick.

On inquiry it was discovered that two young gentlemen, brothers, one of whom is a member of the Bank of England, and who reside in the opposite Terrace, were amusing themselves in the garden by firing at a target 200 yards distant. This young lady is so sorry to learn lies in a hopeless state, the ball, after perforating the glass, passing through five folds of the curtain, lodged in her head, from which it is impossible ever to extract it, and endangering her life.

PHILADELPHIA.

Saturday, October 20, 1821.

MARRIED, on the 11th inst. at Friends' Meeting, in the Rev. Mr. Ting, GEORGE W. BROWN, Esq. to Miss ANN LOUISA, daughter of Mr. Harrison, Esq. Auditor of the Treasury of the United States.

MARRIED, on the 11th inst. at Friends' Meeting, in the Rev. Mr. Ting, STACEY COLLINGS, Bookseller, to MARY E. daughter of Edward Dudley, all of that city.

The PIRATE, a new novel by the author of Waverley, is now in press, and will be published in this city.

Joseph Lancaster has published at Baltimore, the first number of a periodical work entitled The Friend of Man.

We are happy to hear that the Fever, which has, for about six weeks, prevailed in Germantown and its neighbourhood, is happily subsiding.

WILD PIGEONS.—Large flocks of these migratory birds were seen, this morning, over our city, taking their annual flight to the southward.

ACCIDENTS.—About five o'clock yesterday afternoon, two lifeless bodies were taken out of the common sewer in Sixth Street, opposite North alley. It appears that one of the men went down for the purpose of clearing away some obstructions, and when near the bottom fell dead on his face, the other thinking he had a fit went down to his assistance, but shared the same fate. Medical assistance was called, but every effort to resuscitate life proved unavailing. How many casualties of this kind take place, and yet they do not operate as a caution to those whose duty calls them to explore impregnated cavities in the earth.

BURGLARY.—Amos Bewley, and Francis Starret alias John Smith, broke open and entered the public-house of Mr. M. Wilson, north of Third street, lately, and stole from thence a variety of articles to the amount of about one hundred dollars. The alarm being given, Starret was pursued and arrested, and many lives lost, reports say 300. The barracks were also destroyed, and many lives lost in them.

CASEALTY.—A horse took fright yesterday afternoon, in Eighth street, near Liberty, and threw his rider, who was killed on the spot.

A MAMMOTH HOG is now exhibiting at Mr. Oliver's Inn, sign of the Indian King, Market street, which in size and elegance of the limbs exceeds any animal of the kind we have ever seen. The weight is 132 pounds; and measures round the body seven feet seven inches, and ten feet two inches in length.

Surely some system ought to be adopted by the citizens of Philadelphia, to prevent the indiscriminate destruction of property in the vicinity of fires, which frequently leaves the sufferers more destitute than those who are driven from their homes by the devouring element!

On Wednesday week, a new boiler of the high-pressure engine at Fair-Mount Water-works, burst directly over the engine—the steam and boiling water were discharged, with great force into the boiler shed below. By this accident, R. Bingham, who attended the engine, was so severely scalded that he died on Saturday—his remains were interred on Sunday. Another person who was under the shed at the time, was also badly injured—he was taken to the Pennsylvania hospital, where his recovery was considered doubtful.

By an arrival at New-York from Curacao, it is stated, that Puerto Cabello was still in possession of the Royalists, in the neighbourhood of which place there was constant skirmishing. The Congress of Colombia had decreed, that all new born slaves should be free, and to be supported by their masters until they are eighteen—no slaves to be imported, and no foreigner allowed to bring more than one slave with him as servant, and he to be taken away with him.

It is generally understood that a great portion of the pecuniary distress felt in England, is produced by the emigration of people of fortune, from that kingdom to France, it being a much cheaper country than England, and the consequent immense drain of money from the one country to the other. As an evidence of the extent of this emigration, it is stated in a French paper that in the single town of Tours, there are no less than 1200 English settled.

Delicate Manufacture.—Almira Woodward, of East-Haven, has manufactured a beautiful Ladies' Leghorn Hat, of grass of her own raising. This bonnet was exhibited at the late Cattle Show at New-Haven, (Conn.) and so highly was it estimated by the judges, that they awarded her a premium more than double the sum stipulated. Her first attempt at this kind of manufacture was last year, when she obtained the first premium at the cattle show at the above place.

On a recent inquiry into the number and condition of the Schools in the town of Providence, (R. I.) it appears that the whole number of Academies and Schools in that town alone is sixty-one, and that the whole number of pupils instructed therein is two thousand eight hundred and five. This estimate includes five schools supported at the expense of the town, the Yearly Meeting School under the superintendence of the Friends, and forty-one primary schools, and several private academies for the instruction of young gentlemen and ladies. Here is an example worthy of praise and emulation.

In the account of the late annual Fair of the Albany Agricultural Society, we find mention of some Sickles, manufactured by John J. Godfrey of that city, which were pronounced by competent judges vastly superior to any imported, and fully equal to those manufactured in Pennsylvania. Thus we go on, without the aid of prohibitory duties, extending and improving the manufacture of articles for which we were formerly exclusively indebted to foreign work-shops.

The Legislative Council and General Assembly of New-Jersey, convened at Trenton, on Tuesday next, the 23d inst.

We state it with shame and sorrow, (says the Village Record,) that three young men, of the Society of Friends, were brought to the jail of this place on Saturday last, for not performing military duty. Is this the land of the tolerant Penn? Is this the boasted land where every man may enjoy his religious opinions without molestation—and worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience?

A fire of a very singular but alarming description was occasioned at Canewdon, in Great Britain, lately, from the following circumstance: a person holding a burning glass, directed a child to put a piece of paper against a barn, upon which he brought the sun's rays to bear in a manner which set the paper on fire, when that part of the barn being covered with moss, the blaze was communicated to the thatch. The barn and a stable adjoining were totally consumed.

At a Court at Amherst, N. H. a person was convicted of stealing a pocket-book from his father.

The Copper Mine at Dolacoth, in Cornwall, (Eng.) employs under ground 750 persons, and consumes monthly 20000 lbs. of candles. It is 1400 feet deep, and contains in it 700,000 of cubic feet of excavated space. The pumps bring up daily from this mine 120,000 cubic feet of water.

Singular fact.—The temperature of the air, was one degree lower on the longest day of 1821, in London, than on the shortest day of the last year.

The Poughkeepsie Journal mentions a Mr. Beadle who for many years kept a tavern near that village, but who died 10 or 12 years ago; and within a year his widow has also died.—Now, there is nothing singular in this, but there is in what follows: Since the death of mine hostess, a bag of money has been found among her effects, which, on examination, proved to consist entirely of six-penny pieces. The amount was 1600 dollars, making the enormous number of 25,600 six-pennies, which, supposing her to have laid by 4 each day, must have been nearly twenty years in accumulating. A very fine saving bank, this; and we heartily recommend the institution of similar ones to all the worthy landladies in the country. "Take care of the pence," says the proverb, "and the pounds will take care of themselves."

Singular.—A man was lately committed to prison in Susquehanna county, (Pa.) for the non-payment of his marriage fee.—It is since stated in the Utica Sentinel, that he has delivered himself from limbo by selling his wife, and applying the proceeds to the discharge of the debt.

A duel was fought at Frederickton, N. B. on the 4th inst. between two young lawyers, named Street and Wetmore. The latter fell at the second shot, having received the ball in his head, and died in three hours. Street and his two seconds, (officers of the army) had fled.

A writer in a Savannah paper affirms, that the Planters' Bank of that place had, at one time, issued three millions of paper, when possessed of only 30,000 dollars in gold and silver.

The newspapers inform us, that Capt. ALDEN PATRIDGE, the Superintendent or Preceptor of the Military School at Norwich, Vt. and formerly Superintendent of the United States Military Academy, has been elected President of the Vermont University, seated at Burlington, Vt.

PETER LOUIS BIAON, Admiral of the Venezuelan Navy, died at Curacao on the 27th ult. in the thirtieth year of his age.

THE TURF.—The races, on the Union Course, Long Island, about nine miles from New-York, commenced on Wednesday last. A number of first rate horses have entered the lists, and much sport may be expected. The first day's course, four mile heats for $500, was contested by Mr. Van Ranst's horse Eclipse; Lady Lightfoot, a celebrated mare from Maryland; Col. Scomp's brown gelding, Heart of Oak, and Flag of Truce, a young horse from Jersey. The first heat was won by Eclipse, and in the second, which was only contested by Eclipse and Lady Lightfoot, the latter was distanced. The course was numerous and fashionably attended; and measures have been taken to prevent any gambling or improper conduct on the ground.

The following horses entered on Thursday for the second day's running of three-mile heats: Lady Richmond, Eclipse, (formerly Bond's), Lady Duroc, Flag of Truce, and Wellington. The purse was won by the former in two heats.

On Saturday last, in the case of Lonsdale versus Brown, Judge Washington decided, after argument, and holding the case for some time under advisement, that a Bill of Exchange drawn in one State of the Union upon a person or persons in another State of the Union, is a foreign Bill of Exchange. The court, we presume, was obliged to have recourse to this fictio, that the spirit of the law might be preserved. [Union.]

At the New-York Court of Sessions on Saturday last, the case of John Downs and Elizabeth Downs, his wife for assault and battery, was attended with some laughable occurrences. The charge was for an assault and battery of a mild character. Mrs. Downs, a corpulent lady (being called, laid aside her cloak, bonnet and shawl, and, coming forward, made a low courtesy to the court, crossed herself devoutly, and declared that she intended to tell the truth. She then proceeded most vehemently, in her justification; threw her arms around the District Attorney, and gave him a close hug, to illustrate the manner of the assault; and at length, getting warm in the argument, she commenced speaking Irish, and Counselor Swanton, being against her, commenced also to speak in Irish. A ludicrous scene ensued; and the whole examination progressed in Irish, to the infinite amusement of the court. [Advocate.]

Winchester, (Vt.) Oct. 13.

SEANDER.—On Tuesday last, came on for trial in the superior court for this county, the suit of Mildred Thatcher vs. Thomas Buck and Ann his wife, to recover damages for propagating a slanderous report. The counsel for the plaintiff represented her as young, beautiful, and accomplished—and the counsel for the defendant urged how hard it was for a man to pay for what his wife chose to speak, and that it was founded upon a most arrant fiction of the law, that the wife was under the control of her husband. Damages 1500 dollars!

The Louisiana Advertiser of the 11th ult. says, "Along the frontier of the state of Louisiana there is at this moment almost every species of smuggling carried on—slaves are brought in by dozens."

REMARKABLE LONGEVITY.—(There is now living in the county of Culpeper, (Va.) a man by the name of Joseph Morris, who is upwards of one hundred and twelve years of age.—Mr. M. is active and in good health, visits his neighbors, and is pleasing in conversation. His wife, who is also living, is in the hundred and fifth year of her age! They have been married seventy-nine years and have had five children.

Montreal, Sept. 29. There is now on a farm in La Chine, some young apple trees from which a crop of apples was gathered about four weeks since; which are at present in full blossom, and beginning to exhibit young apples the same as early in the spring.

Hartford, Oct. 15. We mentioned last week that many fruit trees had put forth leaves and blossomed since the gale. Yesterday a cluster of small apples was brought to this office of the full growth; on the north side of the same tree from which they were taken, were apples of the spring growth. [Mirror.]

Steam Boat Improvement.—A steam boat with a double revolving engine has commenced running betwixt Medford and Boston. Her speed is stated at eight miles an hour, and the peculiar construction of her boiler allows it to be above deck, leaving the hold unoccupied, and free from heat and danger. The inventor has obtained a patent.

COMMUNICATION. VOCAL.—A taste for public Musical and Instrumental entertainment, has become very prevalent in this city, since science has been appreciated and the pursuit of it encouraged. Concerts, composed at times of one or the other, and frequently of both, are repeatedly announced in the daily papers; and it is gratifying to know that they are attended by a numerous collection of persons, who derive edification, whilst they are agreeably and rationally amused. Among the whole number of proposals for this sensible and useful mode of employing the time, and improving the mind, we know of none more apt to accomplish the design than that of Mr. Warwick's. At the Hotel, (at the front of which is suspended a beautiful portrait of the Declaration of Independence, after the manner of that recently published with signatures,) situate at the corner of Seventh and Cedar streets, a regular course of Harmonic entertainment will hereafter be given weekly. The admission, we understand, is gratuitous—the proprietor desiring to promote the cultivation of the Musical art—and gentlemen are invited to attend.

The Saturday Mail.

Extract of a letter from an officer on board one of the blockading squadrons off Carthage, dated the 25th of September.

"Our brig has just left the blockade at Carthage. The city is in a very deplorable situation, having very little provisions and no firewood: they are even burning their doors and balconies. Their rations, by the account from some deserters, is one ounce of beef and two ounces of rice per day. The English frigate Tribune came to an anchor off the city for the purpose of taking the Governor and his effects—the boat was sent on shore, but stopt by the besieging General, Padilla—upon which the frigate commenced firing, when Padilla got his gun-boats out, and made the frigate depart. The frigate then went to Havana. The Governor then agreed to surrender the city on the 15th inst. whether the frigate returned by that time or not. On the 15th we left there, being ordered up to Rio de la Hacha, to take on board Bolivar and the troops destined for Porto Bello, at which time they were keeping up a constant fire from the town on the Patriots, who surrounded the city, and were building forts, &c. The gun-boats have got entire possession of the harbor. The American brig Struggle lies there, having been cut out from under the forts by the gun-boats. The struggle was loaded with provisions from Havana, and is very much cut up by the forts of the town, and had several of her crew killed."

From the Catskill Recorder.

Our Convention has become somewhat proverbial for long debates and slow progress. A gentleman after enumerating some of the distinguished names which are found in the delegations, pronounced it an august body. "Yes," replied a wag, "but it will be a November body if the talking mania continues."

FATAL ACCIDENT.—The coroner reports the death of Miss ANN ELMENDORF, of Durham, aged about 25. The facts which appeared at the inquest, were, that she was seen endeavouring to ford the Catskill creek, from the west side, a few rods above the Paper-Mill of Mr. Abner Austin, and being ignorant of the depth, drowned in the attempt. She had been on a visit to some of her friends, and on returning through the woods, it is supposed she got lost, which induced her to attempt to cross the creek.

On the 1st of this month, WILLIAM CARROLL took the oath of office as Governor of Tennessee, in the presence of both houses of the Legislature. After taking the oath, the Governor addressed the two houses, informing them that he was aware of the importance of the duties he was called upon to discharge, and assured them that he would, to the best of his abilities, cause the laws of the land to be executed.

JOHN H. EATON has been unanimously re-elected a Senator of the United States from the state of Tennessee, for the term of six years, from the 4th day of March last.

DIED, last night, after a tedious illness, which he bore with fortitude and resignation, Mr. JONATHAN FISHER. The friends and relatives of the family are particularly requested to attend the funeral from his late dwelling, back of No. 32, Race street, to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

DIED of Typhus Fever, at Brooklyn, L. I. on the 13th inst. in the 30th year of his age, THOMAS BURROVES, Esq. of Philadelphia, late purser of the Dolphin.

DIED at Moutholly, N. J. on the 10th inst. of a pulmonary consumption, Mr. THOMAS C. TROTTER, formerly of this city, in the 33d year of his age.

DIED at Germantown, on the 16th inst. PETER DEDIER, aged 81. Also, on the 17th inst. Miss DEDIER, aged 11 years, daughter of William Dedier. Also, Miss MAHL, daughter of the late Mr. Martin Mahl.

DIED at Bush-hill, on the night of Thursday, the 18th inst. Mrs. LUCY HOFNER, relict of Jacob Hofner, aged 51 years.

DIED on Thursday afternoon, at Holmesburg, near Philadelphia, after a short illness, Mrs. MARY PETERSON, wife of Derick Peterson, Esq. aged 65 years.

DIED on Saturday morning last, in Sadsbury township, Chester county, Penn. (to which place he had removed his family a few months ago,) SAMUEL BRYAN, Esq. late Register of Wills for the city and county of Philadelphia, in the 61st year of his age. Mr. Bryan had filled several important offices, under the government of Pennsylvania, during and since the revolutionary war, with honour to himself and usefulness to the Commonwealth.

DIED at Washington, on Friday evening last, General JOHN ROSS KEY, an officer of the Revolution, and a respectable inhabitant of Frederick county, in the State of Maryland. He was the father of Francis S. Key, Esq. of that District.

Newport, (R. I.) Oct. 13. DIED in this town, on the 5th inst. CATO OVERING, a respectable black, supposed to be upwards of 110 years of age. He was brought from Africa to this town, by Capt. Abraham Ali, about the year 1760, and was then by his own account, upwards of 50 years of age; as he stated, that when he was taken from his home and family by a hostile tribe, he left behind him a wife, two daughters who were married, and several grand children; that afterwards he served an African prince 7 or 8 years, and was then sold to captain Ali, who brought him here during the old French war.

At a meeting of the Select and Common Councils, ROBERT WHARTON, Esq. was unanimously re-elected Mayor of the city, for the ensuing year.

FROM PORTUGAL.—Capt. Jones, arrived at Boston, from St. Ubes, left Lisbon on the 11th ult. He informs that the Cortes was in session, and twelve deputies had arrived from the Brazils. Every thing was quiet in Portugal.

The Governor of St. Thomas has prohibited the keeping of Pigeons in the town, on account of the filth which they deposit in the gutters of the roofs of houses, rendering the water in the cisterns impure.

Imprisonment for Debt.—This practice has been condemned by two very different but equally eminent men. Dr. Johnson disapproved of it, and Mr. Horne Tooke declared that "it operated as an illusory satisfaction to the injured, contributed to the ruin of the innocent as well as the triumph of guilt, and was beneficial to none but Marshals, Turnkeys, and Attorneys."

Newspapers.—The following advertisement is copied verbatim from an old Norwich (England) newspaper, printed by Henry Crossgrove, in the year of 1739:—"This is to inform my friends and customers, that on Saturday next this newspaper will be sold for a penny, and be continued at that price; but advertisements will be still taken in gratis, as formerly. The reason of my raising it to a penny is, because the number 1 print is too prodigious great to be given away any longer; and I hope none of my customers will think it dear at a penny, since they shall always have the best intelligence, besides other diversions."

Dr. Bateman concerns the custom, so frequently adopted, of sprinkling the sick chamber with aromatic vinegar or other perfumes, as tending to vitiate the air rather than to prevent infection. Careful ventilation is the essential thing.
